The Borough Council has published a list of sites of archaeological interest as a separate document.

This document will be available on the council's website. Please refer to the web site for updated information at www.reigate-banstead.gov.uk.

2. COMMENTARY

Historic buildings are part of our heritage. They provide a historical perspective on the development of both towns and countryside. Such buildings cover a wide range of architectural styles and types of conservation, as well as being of historic importance. Many of the buildings represent significant events in Surrey's history or illustrate the use of local building materials.

Buildings of Special Architectural or Historic Interest (Statutory Listed Buildings)

It is important that those buildings that contribute to the historic, architectural and visual character of the Borough are preserved and safeguarded from unsympathetic change. Protection is afforded to the buildings that are included in the statutory list of Buildings of Special Architectural or Historic Interest. They cannot be demolished or altered in a way that would affect their character without specific permission known as Listed Building Consent. The list is divided into three gradings: Grade 1, buildings of outstanding national interest, Grade II*, important buildings of more than special interest and Grade II, buildings of special interest. Grades A, B, C refer to ecclesiastical buildings.

There are some 428 Statutory Listed Buildings in the Borough (including 5 Grade I, 4 Grade B and 18 Grade II*). They range from coal tax posts, milestones and cattle troughs, to three Grade I churches, Reigate Priory and Tadworth Court. The former Reigate Borough area was surveyed by the Department of the Environment in 1976/77 and the Banstead and Horley areas in 1983/84. Over a 100 buildings have been added by the spot listing process in recent years and further additions to the list will be added in the future.

There is a strong presumption against the demolition of any Listed Building, except in the most exceptional circumstances and the Borough Council will seek to ensure that the existing stock of Listed Buildings is well maintained. The character of Listed Buildings and their contribution to the townscape or landscape can be severely damaged by insensitive alteration, extension or adjoining development. Therefore, through the exercise of its development control powers the Borough Council will ensure that any alteration or extension to a Listed Building, or development that would affect the setting of a Listed Building, is of the highest possible design, and fully complements the existing building. In certain circumstances a relaxation of normal planning standards and building regulations may be appropriate.

Buildings within the curtilage of or attached to buildings of Special Architectural or Historic Interest (Curtilage structures)

The schedule identifies only curtilage or attached structures of known interest in the grounds of Statutory Listed Buildings; 176 such buildings have been identified. Under Section 1(5b) of The Planning (Listed Buildings & Conservation Areas) Act 1990, generally structures attached to or within the grounds of a Statutory Listed Building will require Listed Building Consent for extension, alteration or demolition. This includes buildings originally ancillary to the Listed Building, but which may now be in separate ownership, such as Lodges, farm buildings, coach houses, etc.

Buildings of Local Architectural or Historic Interest (Locally Listed Buildings)

The Statutory list is supplementary by a "local list" consisting of 634 buildings and structures identified as being of local architectural or historic interest. Whilst local list status itself does not afford any form of statutory protection, it is an important consideration in any planning application. Before contemplating works of repair or alteration, it is advisable to contact the Borough Conservation Officer, as properties on the local list are being constantly upgraded and added to the Statutory List. The Borough Council will seek to ensure the preservation of buildings on the local list, promoting good design, traditional materials and the conservation of historic fabric.

Many locally listed buildings are located in conservation areas and thus have a degree of statutory protection. An Article 4(1) Direction has been served on a number of Locally Listed dwelling houses to control external alterations. These are listed in Section 3.

Ancient Monuments

Ancient Monuments are buildings or earthworks of historical, architectural, artistic or archaeological importance. The Borough contains 20 such sites ranging from barrows to the site of a former castle, all of which have been scheduled by the Secretary of State for the Environment.

Under the 1979 Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act and the 1983 National Heritage Act, it is necessary to obtain Scheduled Monument Consent from the Department of the Environment, for any works affecting an Ancient Monument. These could include demolition, alterations, tipping or flooding.

The Borough Council has published a list of sites of archaeological interest in the Borough that have been identified by the County Council, known as County Sites of Archaeological Importance. Areas of High Archaeological Potential and other additional sites have been added as a result of further studies by the County Council and other agencies. However, finds may also be made unexpectedly in the course of development, e.g. new roads, mineral extraction, redevelopment or farming. In some cases preservation may not always be possible, or even essential, and excavation to record the evidence may be sufficient. In these circumstances, the Borough Council will co-operate with the appropriate organisations to arrange for the investigation and recording of such remains as part of the development control process.

Historic Gardens

There are a number of gardens in the Borough, which are considered to be of historic interest. Two of these, Reigate Priory and Gatton Park, are included in the Register of Parks and Gardens of Special Historic Interest in England compiled by English Heritage. No additional planning controls apply to gardens or parks in the Register, but they receive special consideration if and when proposals for development in the area are contemplated.

There are also 38 gardens on the local list of parks and gardens list. The Borough Council recognises the importance of preserving such gardens as they form part of the Borough's heritage, and will ensure that the character and appearance of such gardens and their settings are not destroyed by insensitive development.

The Borough Council will seek the co-operation of owners and other interested parties in surveying historic gardens, with a view to encouraging their future management and restoration. Replanting of species of the period will be encouraged, where appropriate, and the Borough Council will seek the advice of the County Council's Historic Parks and Gardens Advisor on these matters. Development proposals affecting historic gardens should be accompanied by an environmental assessment study which details the likely effect on the garden and measures for its protection, restoration or enhancement.

Conservation Areas

Conservation Areas are not listed in the schedule but there is a separate list on the Council website.

The Borough Council has powers to designate those areas considered to have special architectural or historic interest as Conservation Areas. The Borough's Conservation Areas not only preserve the best of the Borough's townscape and natural environment, but also illustrate its evolution and provide an historic framework for future development, where this is appropriate. There are 21 Conservation Areas in the Borough to date, ranging in size and variety from the architectural interest and historic importance of Reigate town centre to the rural setting and amenity value of Chipstead Pond and Church Green.

There is an overall presumption in favour of the retention and conservation of individual buildings and features that contribute to the particular character of a Conservation Area, rather than their redevelopment, inappropriate alteration, or demolition. The Borough Council will use its development control powers in a positive manner in order to allow the area to remain alive and prosperous, but at the same time to ensure that any new development accords with its architectural and visual qualities. Particular attention to materials and details is necessary, by using natural materials or traditional methods and materials. Consent for the use of upvc windows and other unsuitable materials will not be granted.

Trees contribute to the character and amenities of Conservation Areas and it is important to secure their retention. Trees in Conservation Areas are specifically protected, and notice of intention to lop, top or fell a tree in a Conservation Area has to be given to the Borough Council.

An Article 4(2) Direction has been served on a number of dwelling houses in Conservation Areas to control alterations to elevations facing highways or open space. In the case of Carter's Cottages, Pendleton Road, St. John's, paintwork is also subject to control.

Consultation on Repairs, Alterations & Extensions

Early consultation with the Borough Council's Conservation Officer is recommended for all works affecting Listed Buildings before submission of any formal application.
